Being Good Neighbor

The first step in creating and shaping community starts right in your neighborhood. Many people do not realize just how important and influential your neighbors are in your living experience.

The key to having a good experience with your neighbors is to be a good neighbor yourself. Here are some tips to get along and befriend the people around you. Neighbors who are courteous are respected by the people who live nearby, and good neighbors look after each other.

1. Communication. In any relationship, including in your community, communication is essential. Introduce yourself and welcome others. Being friendly and talking through neighborhood issues gains trust and respect, especially when you feel that those around you are your ally. Avoid involving the City in neighbor disputes that can be solved by communicating with your neighbors.

2. Be Social. Being friendly goes a long way. Host a potluck or picnic for your neighborhood. Coordinate with the City and we will support you by giving you ideas and provide you free use of City parks and facilities for a neighborhood gathering that fosters goodwill.

3. Be Courteous. Clean yards and living spaces make for better neighbors. Keep your fences setback and plants trimmed so that people can see around them to drive or walk on the sidewalk. If you have a campfire, avoid smoking out the neighborhood. Most important, keep things quiet and don't be a noisy neighbor!

4. Be Respectful. Being a caring resident in the community shows respect. Watching out for other is respectful and is an excellent way to endear yourself to neighbors. Everyone wants to live their own life, and respecting of other peoples' time and space is essential.

5. Be Helpful. We all go through hard times and struggles in life, a good neighbor will be there to help in those times. Putting in a little energy to do something nice will show you are a generous and considerate person.

6. Animals. We remain largely country, and animals and pets are a great addition to life, but they can also be a nuisance. Train your pets to be quiet and not cause problems. Keep your animal pens and/or kennels clean and setback from neighboring homes.
